

Water Resources Plan – publication statement

All water companies are required by law to prepare a Water Resources Management Plan (WRMP). After a period of public consultation the company published a Statement of Response in December 2013 in reply to the queries raised during this process. All changes to the draft plan resulting from the consultation period have been incorporated in the Final WRMP. There have been no material changes between the Draft and Final WRMP and the company was given permission to publish the plan in July 2014.

The published version of the plan is required to exclude any matters of commercial confidentiality and any material contrary to the interests of national security. There were no matters of commercial confidentiality. We have excluded information relating to the location of key assets (including the map) on the advice of our certifier for emergency planning and in the interests of national security.

A copy of the WRMP and associated tables and documents can be found here. A non-technical summary is also available and provides an overview of the plan
