

Press Release

Flatmates hit £500 jackpot for receiving water bill online

13 January 2012

Roger Harrington, SBW's Managing Director, presents the £500 cheque to Ryan Prout (centre) and Steven Lake

Flatmates Ryan Prout and Steven Lake hit the jackpot by agreeing to pay their water bills online.

They shared a £500 prize after winning a draw organised by electronic billing service MyBillsOnline.

News of their success came as a pleasant surprise to the pair who are customers of Sembcorp Bournemouth Water (SBW).

Ryan, a Senior Editor with film production company Whitel lantern Film and sister firm White Circle, said: "We were completely unaware of the competition so to win this money is just fantastic.

"It's really easy and convenient to receive and pay your water bill online. I'm a big fan of the service."

Roger Harrington, SBW's Managing Director, said increasing numbers of customers were choosing to receive their water bill online.

He added: "We want to make it as easy for people to pay their water bill by whatever method suits them.

"MyBillsOnline offered a prize draw for our customers who signed up and I am very pleased that Ryan and Steven had their names chosen."

SBW was one of the first organisations to sign up for the electronic billing service which gives customers a more convenient way to view, manage and pay their water bills.

The secure service is free, easy to use, doesn't require multiple passwords and reduces the need to send paper bills through the post.

Full details can be found at www.mybillsonline.co.uk